

I request that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

The Indiana Telephone Privacy law has greatly reduced the number of nuisance telemarketing phone calls and has improved our privacy and peace at home.

The Indiana law has been very effective, essentially reducing 15 calls per week to a couple per month.

We do not want exemptions for the many telemarketers that might consider us "existing customers"

We do favor a national law on this annoying problem leading to lack of privacy, but strongly object to a law that imposes a lower standard of privacy than existing state laws. The most stringent law should take precedence!!
